Serving Bethel and neighboring communities in the mountains of western Maine

In bright and cheerful memory of Ginny

The Cross Country Quilters presented the Bethel Library with a quilt they created in memory of Ginny Keniston from the fabrics in her collection. "Ginny was one of the original members of the Quilt Guild and was an active, enthusiastic participant along with being a mentor to many and remains in all our hearts as a very special person," said member Pat McCartney. "This sampler quilt pattern was a favorite of Ginny." The group donated the quilt for the Children's Section to comfort children who are there to read or be read to. A fund set up from donations has been used to purchase books for the library to honor Ginny's devotion and service. The books will be an annual event. Donations for the fund will be ongoing. Anyone wishing to contribute may do so at the library or with The Cross Country Quilters, who meet every Thursday from 1-3 p.m. at the Moses Mason Barn. Pictured are: Martha Bangs (Ginny's daughter), Pat McCartney, Dawn Giroux, Diane Smith, Edleen Winslow, Shireen Vincent, Arlene Gauthier, Carol Nielsen, Jan Hale, Barbara Honkala, Jo-Ann Korhonen, Debbie Hayes, Lucy Nordahl, Mabel Kennett, Kathy Thrall, Marlene Engdahl, Ginger Kelly, Jackie Van Leuven, Michele Conroy, June Abbott, Karen Bean.

New Main Street museum will boast our planet's largest collection of Maine gems and minerals

By ALISON ALOISIO
Larry Stifler likens his effort to bring world-class Maine gems back home for display in a new museum in Bethel to "a Greek coming to the British Museum to take back part of the Parthenon."

Stifler and his wife, Mary McFadden, own a summer home in Albany. Their permanent home is in Massachusetts, where he owns a national health care company.

They have been working with local jeweler/miner Jim Mann and others to help preserve western Maine's gem and mineral heritage through purchasing properties (including the Bumpus Mine in Albany); noteworthy Maine gems and minerals from collections around the world; historical materials; and now, the Kennett Realty building on Main Street in Bethel.

The building will be converted to a gem and mineral museum, to showcase the collections, educate the public (particularly young people) and provide a center for research.

Stifler hopes to have it open in about two years.

Some of the current "stars" of his growing collection include a 158-carat, flawless morganite gem, the largest and finest cut from "The Rose of Maine," which was discovered in the Bennett Mine in Buckfield in 1989; a 106-carat red tourmaline gemstone, one of the largest from a Dunton Mine find in Newry; and a 6.4-pound tourmaline crystal from the Dunton Mine.

Stifler said he has been told by museum curators that this is now the world's largest collection of Maine gems and minerals, with thousands of specimens.

He is acquiring collections and gems through outright purchase, as well as on long-term loan, from sources such as Harvard University and the American Museum of

Lost three days in the woods, Mo the cockatiel finds a friendly logger's shoulder to alight on

By ALISON ALOISIO
On the morning of July 6, Mike Bennett of Bennett's Lumber was getting out of his harvesting machine at a Gilead job site.

He saw an odd-looking bird fly out from under his pickup truck.

"Did you see that?" he asked another worker nearby. "It looked like an exotic bird."

The other logger asked Bennett what he had been drinking.

Then he saw it, too.

The bird landed on the windshield wiper of the pickup. Bennett walked over, put out his finger, and the bird happily hopped aboard.

Bennett got into his truck and promptly called his father, Don.

"He said he had to keep working, and didn't know what to do with the bird," Don said Thursday. "I told him to bring it to the house and we'd figure something out."

So Mike drove to Bethel Village and dropped off the unusual bird, which they determined was an Australian cockatiel.

"It was tickled to death to be with people," said Don. "After several flights about the house, it helped the ladies rearrange their earrings and hairdos. It sat on everyone's shoulder. This was obviously someone's pet."

Not wanting to take a chance on another escape, the Bennetts bought a used cage from Peterson's Pet Stop in Bethel. They also bought some bird food, which the cockatiel ate

Traffic on Mason St. will remain two-way

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Some compromises were required when it came time to squeeze a new sidewalk into the relatively tight Mason Street corridor, but a majority of the Bethel selectmen have indicated there is one thing they are not willing to compromise on, at least not yet—the street's two-way traffic.

An item on the agenda for their meeting Monday read: "Discuss possibility of one-way designation for Mason Street."

Selectman Dennis Doyon's response was immediate and unequivocal: "No, why?"

The item had been placed on the agenda at the request of Board Chairman Stan Howe, who replied: "There are options you have to look at."

But Howe was the only selectman inclined to take that view.

Doyon, the board's vice-chairman, argued that trade-offs (most notably lost parking spaces) were inevitable once the board voted to approve the sidewalk, and now everyone had to live with them.

"You can't have everything," he said, directing his remarks toward Howe, "and the two-way traffic is much more important."

He also suggested Howe, the long-time executive director of the Bethel Historical Society, and currently its associate director, had personal reasons for raising the issue—the three parking spaces that had been lost along the Mason Street side of the Moses Mason House.

"The two or three spaces you had next to the Moses Mason House are gone," Doyon told Howe, "and you can't affect everybody on the entire street, saying: 'Let's now turn it one-way, so that we can have our three parking spaces back.'"

"You knew when you voted for the sidewalk that that was

Pathway extension begins trek to Telstar

By ALISON ALOISIO

Section by section, Bethel's Pathway Extension is now working its way toward Telstar High School.

The recreational path project, intended to connect Davis Park with Telstar, got underway last month.

The Bethel Area Trails Committee of the Mahoosuc Land Trust oversees the project.

The extension is not being constructed sequentially, but in segments according to the readiness of the planning and funding.

On one leg, the Gateway Parcel on Route 26, Jack Cross Excavation has laid down crushed gravel to create a 2,053-foot path. The path follows the triangular-shaped property along the Intervale Road, then turns toward the Sunset Road. The MLT owns the Gateway property.

The gravel on the new path is permeable, according to Jim Mitchell, MLT executive director.

"It's the same material as on the walks on the mall in Washington, D.C.," he said Monday.

Yet to be constructed is a bridge to carry walkers over a wetland area on the parcel.

The Gateway section of the Pathway is funded by a $29,602 grant from the Recreational Trails Program. The grant is federal money, made available through the state.

After the Gateway, the next section to be constructed will

Local Lakes Association votes to reshape itself

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Community Lakes Association President Nancy Willard did not mince words.

"It just doesn't make sense—we need to have a different kind of organization," she told members at CLA's annual meeting Saturday.

They responded by amending a key by-law to greatly increase the number of representatives on the association's advisory board, and change the manner in which they are apportioned.

The changes are part of an effort to improve CLA's ability to accomplish its missions of maintaining water quality in local ponds and lakes, promoting boating safety and the protecting wildlife.

Traditionally, the CLA's board had been made up of its officers, two representatives each from the towns of Greenwood and Woodstock, and one "representative at large."

But that left many local lakes with no "in-person" representation.

"The way we have been," CLA President Nancy Willard told the members, "we have four people on North Pond, but nobody from South, nobody from Indian, nobody from Twitchell."

Nor from most of the other ponds in the nearly a dozen the association monitors.

And that's a problem, "because we need to know for sure that we have someone on each pond that is diligently on the lookout for problems that might arise," Willard said, be it invasive

STILL TIME TO JOIN THE PARADE

To the Editor:

It is not too late to enter a float into the 50th Anniversary Mollycoddett Days parade. All are welcome—the more the merrier. Remember that this year's theme is "Four seasons of Fun!"

Parade applications are available at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Also— we would like to remind everyone that the parade is starting at 10 a.m., one hour earlier than it traditionally has. The parade line-up is at the Chamber of Commerce office and in the parking lot in back of the Casablanca Cinema.

In addition to the Judge's choice of 1st, 2nd and Honorable Mention, we will make available for the first time a "People's Choice Award." Ballots will be available at the Chamber of Commerce tent from 11 a.m. to Noon—with one vote allowed per person. Float prizes will be announced at approximately 12:30 p.m. by our emcee, Kevin Rosenberg, with the help of Miss Mollycoddett, Ashley Swan.

We look forward to great participation in the parade.

Parade Coordinator

EXCITING TWO-DAY EVENT

To the Editor:

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce has put heart and soul into planning an exciting two day event this weekend, Mollycoddett Days. It has evolved from a very small community bazaar in the 1950s to a full-fledged destination festival that we hope will bring business and commerce to the area, the various vendors who have rented space on the common (area non-profits and for-profit businesses) and at the same time—be a source of community pride.

One of the items the chamber has considered is the additional vehicular traffic that this event will bring into the village. Parking is at a premium on the village streets, so we have created Festival Parking areas that will provide some organization to what can be very tedious as people drive around and around trying to find a parking space.

Festival parking lots will be indicated by red signs and can be found at the following locations: Crescent Park School; Gould Academy parking lots on Church Street, across from the Field House and on High Street, in back of the Bethel House; the grass lots in Bethel Station, on Lower Main Street, across from the Bethel Sewer Plant and on Cross Street, across from the Casablanca Cinema, and in the back parking lot behind the Cinema.

We will have a designated "drop-off" spot near the common, where families can drop off those members who cannot walk the distance to the parking lots. It will be marked as such.

Folks are also reminded that the section of Broad Street, from Upper Main Street to Mason Street will be closed for the majority of Saturday, to allow free-flowing pedestrian access between the Bethel Library, the Bethel Historical Society and the Bethel Common. Mason Street will be a one-way street for the entire weekend as well. The one-way traffic flow will be away from the common-toward Chapman Street.

We would also like to remind everyone that the Kennett Realty/Michael T. Steven Mollycoddett Days foot races will be held on Sunday morning, with the one-mile event starting at 8 a.m., the five-mile and walking event starting at 8:30 a.m. During this time, please yield to the participants, to chamber safety volunteers, and to the Oxford County Police who will be helping out at the event. If you'd like to participate, you may register at the chamber tent on the common on Saturday, or even Sunday morning. The first annual Mollycoddett Days Diaper Dash and Derby, for crawlers and toddlers, will begin at approximately 10 a.m. on the common. This is sure to be a crowd pleaser—so bring your camera!

It is our intention to provide the community an excellent event and we hope to see you there. Volunteer slots are still available—call the chamber at 824-2282 if you'd like to help.

THE WILSON FAMILY—at Yenenesh's Goodbye Ceremony at Holt's Care Center in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

THANKS FOR HELPING THE GIRLS OF ETHIOPIA

To the Editor:

We are writing to express our gratitude to all the people in the Bethel community and beyond who helped in our effort to collect sportswear for girls in Ethiopia. Thanks to your help we were able to deliver more than 175 sports bras and a dozen soccer balls to 10-18 year old girls who participate in sporting clubs in an impoverished region of the country during our recent visit. The staff at the Kembatta Women's Self Help Center were deeply appreciative of the donation and asked us to pass along their thanks to the community.

We'd like to send a special thank you to Lynn Wilson, Heidi Godomsky, and Robin Smith and Tommy's kindergarten class for their help collecting supplies.

We had a wonderful trip to Ethiopia and are happy to be home with our newly adopted five-year-old daughter, Yenenesh. She is enjoying America immensely and we are enjoying her as well. While we're at it, we'd like to thank our families and friends for all the support and encouragement they provided throughout the adoption process. We know that Yenenesh will love Bethel and all of you as much as we do!

be an 800-foot leg between Davis Park and the Intervale Road.

It will cross the Alder River along the way. Another $30,000 RTP grant, together with a 20 percent local match (through in-kind contributions), will provide the funding.

A plan for that section was scheduled to go before the Bethel Planning Board last night (Wednesday).

Planning for the remaining portion, from Sunset Road to Telstar, is continuing and includes discussions with property owners in that area, Mitchell said.

plants, particularly milfoil, erosion, dangerous boating or loon harassment.

Jim Chandler, the current representative at large, agreed.

The change, he said, "would make it a much more representative organization, and we could spread out our efforts."

Members present raised no objection, and after unanimously approving the necessary change, several volunteered to serve.

Others stepped up later, and as of Wednesday the CLA board had the following new members: Sue Curran (Shags), Mark and Cheryl Stearns (Round), Cathy Berberian (North), Nancy Stowell White (Christopher), Richard Schneider (Indian), David Brainard (Twitchell), Alphe Tanguay (Songo), Brad Clark (Concord) and Milt Inman (Hicks and Mud).

Only South Pond lacked a representative.

In other matters Saturday, members discussed the ongoing challenges of milfoil control and eradication, and protecting the local loon population from thoughtless boaters. Chandler, who has headed up the organization's milfoil campaign, reviewed current efforts, which have been bolstered by a substantial Maine Milfoil Initiative Grant from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and by a partnership with the University of Maine Cooperative Extension 4H Camp and Learning Center.

He was asked if he saw a possibility the milfoil could eventually be eradicated. "I hope so," he said, noting the increased resources now available. "I've given eight years of my life to this."

But Willard cautioned members on ponds that currently have no known milfoil to "keep your eyes open; it just gets away from you—it's awful."

Members also discussed several observed instances of heedless boaters disturbing loons. Common loons are protected by both state and federal laws prohibiting the harassment of wildlife, but the problem persists.

It was suggested that perhaps the most effective way to respond to such instances is to get the boat and/or trailer numbers and report the incident to Inland Fisheries and Wildlife and the Maine Audubon Society in Falmouth.

It was also suggested that letters to the editor of local newspapers could help educate the public, but Indian Pond resident Pat Stewart was skeptical.

"I hate to say this, but it's not going to make any difference," Stewart said.

"Some people just don't care. We had people on Indian Pond who were tearing around on their outboard, and I spoke to them."

"I said, 'We have loons here.'"

And the reply from the boat operator?

"I don't care what the hell you have."

OTHER TRADE OFFS—A demand by the Maine Historic Preservation Office for a buffer between the Moses Mason House (left) and the new Mason Street sidewalk forced other compromises, including in the project's timetable. "This is why the project took so long to get finished, Town Manager Jim Doar said recently. "The Historic Preservation Office wanted a buffer between the building and that rock wall." At the same time, he said: "The Federal Government is paying for that sidewalk through a grant. They want five-foot sidewalks. We had to get them to sign off on a four-foot sidewalk. Then the DOT wants a 24-foot road. We had to get them to sign off on a 22-foot road. That's why it took so long—to get the federal and state bureaucracies to sign off on those changes and be OK with them." (Note: The new sidewalk is level. The apparent tilt in the photo is an artifact of the wide-angle lens used to take it.) (Photo: M. Daniels) going to infringe on your parking. You can't have it all, you have it one way or the other."

Howe repeatedly denied he was advocating for a particular outcome. "I just want to be sure we understand what the implications are for the street," he said.

In addition to its residential traffic, Mason Street is used by school buses going to and from Crescent Park School, and Doyon said Ron Deegan, director of transportation for SAD44, was strongly opposed to a switch to one-way.

Deegan, Doyon said, "said if that discussion ever came up, he would very much like to be informed of it, because for the buses and so forth it would be very difficult on a one-way street."

The two other selectmen at Monday's meeting (Don Bennett did not attend) argued that it was premature to begin a discussion of one-way traffic.

"Let's stand back and watch it and see what happens," said Bob Everett.

Jack Cross said: "I think we ought to try it the way it is, and if it doesn't work we can go to Stan's way."

Audience member Don Bennett (the Bethel Citizen columnist, not the selectman) offered a light-hearted suggestion on how to make up for the lost spaces by the Moses Mason House.

"You can always get a shuttle bus and have them park down by the Casablanca," he told Howe.

Doyon liked that idea, and offered his own wrinkle, telling Howe: "For historic reasons you ought to get a horse-drawn carriage and shuttle them up in that."

(Note: One-way traffic is imposed on Mason Street during certain busy village events, including this weekend's Mollykett Days. Traffic will flow from Broad Street, and the common, toward Chapman Street.)

Benefit jewelry auction

BETHEL—An auction to benefit five area non-profit organizations will take place Saturday on the Bethel common, following the 2 p.m. ART Ironclad Chair Auction. The second auction, sponsored by Mt. Mann Jewelers, will offer 30 pieces of jewelry and "a few pretty rock specimens," according to owner Jim Mann. The five organizations that will divide the proceeds are the Project Opportunity Scholarship Fund; the Bethel Flower Club (which maintains flowers on town traffic islands); the Mahosuc Community Band; and Androscoggin Home Health Care and Hospice (which served 100 people in Bethel last year). Both auctions are part of the Mollykett Days events.

Celebration of Life for 'DK'

BETHEL—There will be a Celebration of Life for former Bethel Regional Airport Coordinator Danny 'DK' Kennagh Sunday, July 25, at the airport. The celebration will be from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., rain or shine, and is open to all. There will be more information in next week's Bethel Citizen.

Tough Mountain Challenge

NEWRY—Sunday River will host an adventure obstacle race set on Saturday, Aug. 28. Named "Tough Mountain Challenge," the five-kilometer event takes natural and man-made obstacles found only at Sunday River and pins them against athletes to test physical and mental endurance. The five-kilometer course takes racers from the bottom of the South Ridge base area up to the bottom of Spruce Peak then down through the Barker base area before returning through the "Gates of Hell" to South Ridge. While the distance is relatively short, the combination of obstacles is both lengthy and challenging. Race areas ranging from Suicide Sprint and Hurricane Alley, to Trench of Terror and Slip, Slide and Die, utilize such winter equipment as snowguns, race netting, terrain park features and gates to create one area of difficulty after another. Registration for the Tough Mountain Challenge is $29 and includes race entry and lunch. Registration is open to athletes over the age of 18 and forms are available to download online at www.sundayriver.com or racers can sign up the day of the race. The Tough Mountain Challenge is open to the first 200 athletes. For more information on Sunday River's Tough Mountain Challenge, visit www.sundayriver.com or call (207) 824-3000.

Natural History.

Many of the gems have been hidden away in storage for years. In one case, a collection of tourmalines had been kept in a cigar box for the past century. In another, Stifler recently purchased the entire Maine collection that was being de-accessioned from a museum.

As word has gotten out about his plans, said Stifler, "the response has been enormous."

A wide variety of people have shown interest, he said, noting that one acquaintance said his plumber had raised the subject in conversation.

On July 1, Stifler began an effort to involve the Bethel community in the project, which he hopes will also serve as a boost to the local economy.

He hosted a gathering of about two dozen community members.

Stifler described his plans, displayed some gems that have already been acquired, and spoke of the need for volunteers at the museum and behind the scenes, for tasks including staffing the museum, leading tours and changing displays.

He said he envisions a wide variety of people coming to visit the museum, ranging from serious gemologists from around the world to house guests visiting local residents.

Noting that 600 children had visited the Bumpus Mine in the past year, Stifler projected that a thousand youngsters might visit the museum annually. He also plans to have a science curriculum created based on the museum's resources.

To support the educational part of his mission, Stifler hopes to forge strong links among local mines that are open to the public, such as the Bumpus, sluicing businesses (in which guests may pan for gems in mine tailings) and the museum.

The museum building will be set up with a research/cutting workshop in the basement, and classes will be offered to the public.

As an example of the possibilities, Bob Ritchie of Freeport spoke briefly at the gathering on sphere-cutting, the cutting of stone into spherical shapes for display.

Display areas at the new museum will be located on its first and second floors.

There will also be a gift shop, featuring everything from uncut gems for kids to $50 pendants to $5,000 necklaces.

But, stressed Stifler, "there's no income in it for us."

Any income will go back into the museum, he said.

He also plans to sell some gems from collections that include many duplicates, and use the funds to purchase or trade for others.

While the major focus of the museum will be on Maine gems, Stifler has also been collecting specimens from much greater distances — across the solar system and the galaxy.

He has about two dozen meteorites so far. A large one will be on display for youngsters to touch, and small pieces will be available for purchase.

As Stifler plans the museum, he says he is aided by the fact that he knew little about gems and minerals before embarking on this project. As a novice, said Stifler, he can visualize what will appeal to the general public.

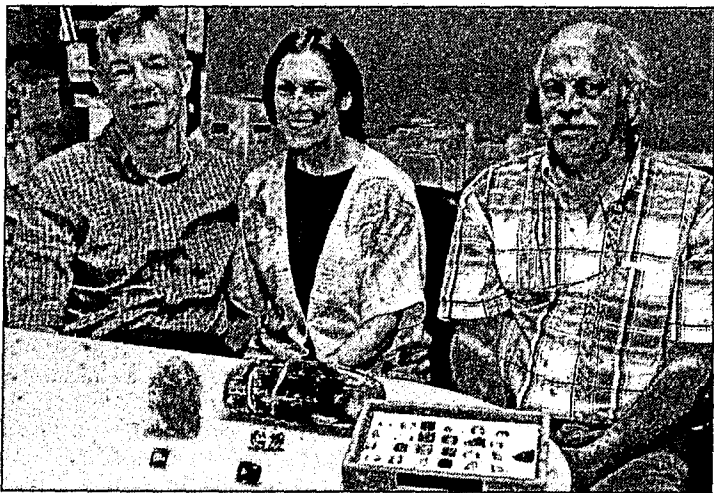

And he will continue to bring the perspectives of other community members into the project, with more gatherings planned.

Robin Zinchuk, executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, was among those attending the July 1 gathering.

"The chamber is thrilled to have the incredible support and passion of Larry and Mary in their new endeavor," she said afterward.

"We also feel blessed to have Jim Mann on the chamber board. He is a relentless advocate for Bethel, and a visionary who is responsible for planting the seed with Larry and Mary."

"We're convinced that this world-class gem and mineral museum and educational facility will be an economic stimulus for our area."

ravenously.

Don and his wife, Cheryl, then pondered what to do next. They decided the first step would be to call people in Gilead and ask if anyone was missing a cockatiel.

No one was, but someone suggested they check Craigslist on the Internet to see if anyone had posted a "Missing Cockatiel" notice.

They had. A bird had been lost July 3 in Shelburne, N.H. Don called a cell phone number and got Stuart Bevin of White River Junction, Vt.

"You have it? I can't believe it!" Bevin said. "Where are you?"

"I'm in Bethel, Maine," Don replied.

"I'm in Bethel, Maine, too," said Bevin. "I'm staying at the Norseman Inn."

Bevin lost no time in driving a mile to pick up his pet.

"He jumped right onto his finger," Bennett said.

"I didn't think we'd find him," Bevin said Thursday.

He explained that he and his wife had been camping in Shelburne with "Mo," who is two years old. When they tried to transfer him from a cage to a carrier, he got away and flew up into nearby trees. He hung around the area for a while, but as dusk approached, he took off toward a mountainous area.

"I grew up in Shelburne, and I knew there wasn't much in that direction," said Bevin, a forester. "My wife and I were heartbroken."

Bevin was in the area for a forestry job in Errol, N.H. His wife returned home, and he decided to stay in Bethel while he worked in Errol a few more days, so he could return to the campsite morning and evening to call the bird.

"I really didn't have much hope, but I at least wanted to know I tried," he said.

Bevin and Don estimated that as the cockatiel flies, Mo traveled about seven or eight miles to arrive at the logging site off the North Road.

"If he had to get lost, he picked a good time," said Bevin, because the hot weather last week closely resembled that of Mo's native habitat.

He also picked the right people to seek out, Bevin said.

"He was fortunate that he was found by kind-hearted people. We are very grateful to the Bennetts," he said.

Mo's adventure did take a toll. "He was a little dehydrated, and he lost some weight," said Bevin. But the bird was eating and recuperating well.

He was also getting back to his habit of mimicking household sounds.

Unlike parrots, cockatiels don't generally speak, Bevin said.

Instead, Mo likes to imitate such sounds as a beeping microwave, a spoon scraping a yogurt container, and people brushing their teeth.

But the cockatiel can expect one change, Bevin said.

"The tips of his wings are going to be clipped."

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

I have a long history of bad habits as I think most of us do to one degree or another.

When I was a kid I used to crack my knuckles all the time. My mother used to tell me that if I didn't stop it some day my knuckles would become all deformed and knarley.

My knuckles are not deformed or knarley but my mother was correct in her belief that knuckle cracking couldn't be good because I now have a touch of arthritis in my hands. I have no doubt that my bad cracking habit has a lot to do with it.

My mother also told me that if I didn't stop making faces at my brothers one of them could freeze in a ghastly contortion. The great freeze never happened, but I do wonder if the face making, which I didn't limit to just my brothers, has been a contributing factor to the wrinkles now appearing around my eyes and forehead.

One bad habit that fortunately I broke in my teenage years was picking the scab of any sore I had. I have no idea what compelled me to do such a thing. For one thing, scab picking hurt and I was never a fan of pain and did it anyway. And for another thing my mother told me it could lead to infection and scars.

Mother was right, I had my share of infections because of the picking and I still have some scars to prove it. Fortunately, the vanity of a teenage girl was enough to cause me to break that bad habit. I discovered that boys were not drawn to girls with oozing sores.

...now that one of my bad habits has become a good habit I'd hate to have it become a bad habit again.

In adulthood I picked up my fair share of other bad habits like smoking and eating all foods that are not good for me. I have been able to break some of my bad habits and some are a constant struggle.

One of my bad habits that I have tried to overcome or at least reduce turns out to actually be a good habit and that's drinking coffee. When I jump start my morning with a couple of cups of my favorite beverage and drug of choice it turns out that I am really doing myself some good above and beyond getting myself to function, which I don't do well until the caffeine boost kicks in.

I heard something on the news about the benefits of drinking coffee, but I didn't catch the whole story and I figured there had to be a catch to it. So I turned to WebMD online and was drawn to the headline "Coffee: The New Health Food?"

Some very serious studies have been done by some very serious entities such as Harvard University and the results are good news for coffee junkies like me.

The studies have shown that drinking coffee can lower the risk of diabetes, Parkinson's disease and colon cancer. As well as lifting one's mood, which I can attest to, it also eases headaches. And here's a tidbit that will amaze you; drinking coffee can lower the risk of cavities.

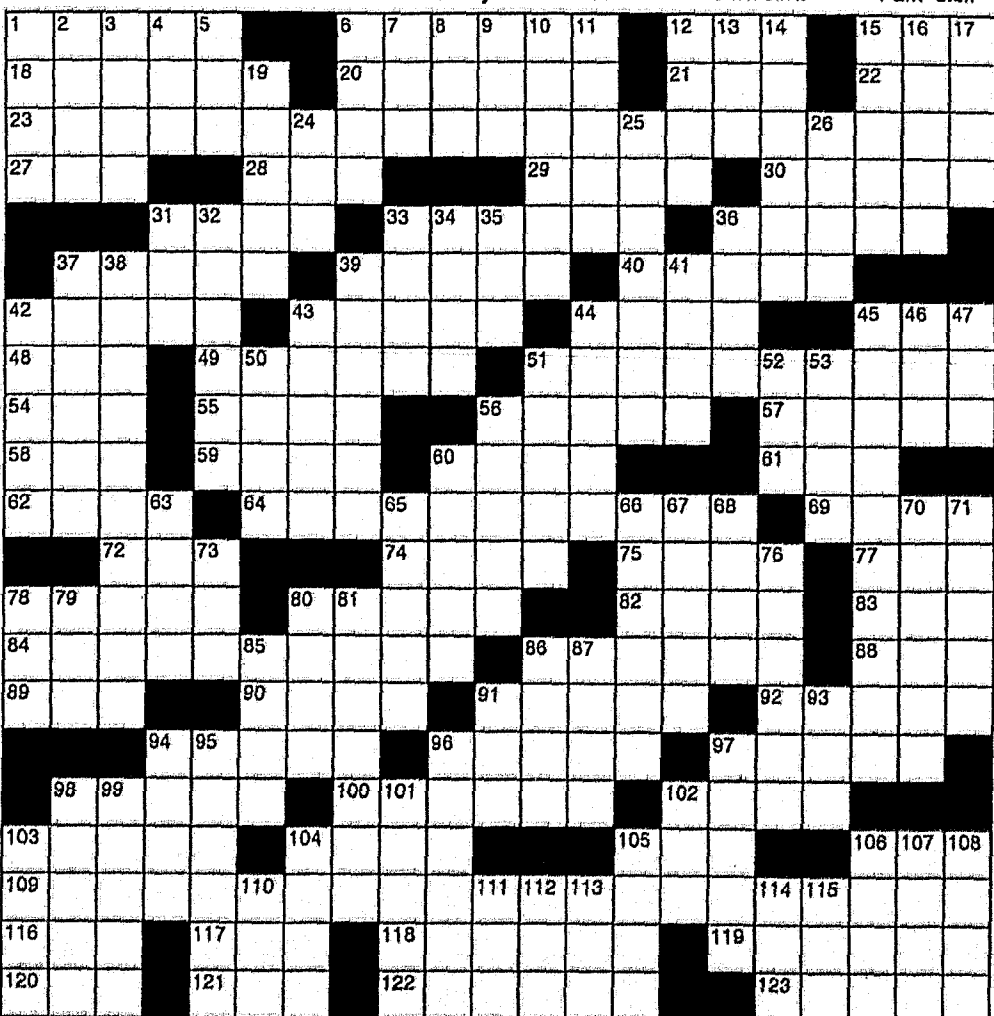

According to the WebMD article caffeine, of which coffee has a high content, is partly responsible for the good benefits, but also the antioxidants in coffee beans play a large part.

As I expected however, there is a small catch. Some people simply cannot tolerate too much coffee. In these people coffee can raise cholesterol levels, contribute to artery clogging and cause rapid heartbeats.

I do not believe that I'm one of those people. At least I hope not because now that one of my bad habits has become a good habit I'd hate to have it become a bad habit again.

Now if only a study would show that a honey dipped donut chased down with a cup of joe would cure what ails me. The way I see it that would be a bad habit turned good that I could get used to. Until that study comes about I'll just stick to coffee and do a happy dance that I have at least one good habit that even my mother would approve of.

Coming Up:

Saturday, July 17 - At the Gilead Bridge to paddle to Bethel Outdoor Adventure Center Jim Mitchell, executive director of the Mahoosuc Land Trust, will educate trekkers on the Mahoosuc Initiative, a regional conservation effort.

Sunday, July 18 - At Bethel Outdoor Adventure Center to paddle to Hanover the trek will be joined by a contingent from Maine Handicapped Skiing and Michele Windsor of the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District. Windsor will discuss aquatic insects.

Saturday and Sunday, July 17-18 at the Common and its surroundings - Mollycoddle Days: Parade at 10 a.m. Saturday morning and at 6:30 p.m. band concert.

Oxford County Mineral and Gem Show: The 49th annual Oxford County Mineral and Gem Association show opened at Telstar Saturday morning. Norm Davis told me that the first show was held in Rumford at the Recreation Center on Congress Street (maybe the same place that was previously known as the Mechanic Institute). Hugh Chapman was the show chairman this year. The Gilead Fire Department had a grill set up to accommodate hungry showgoers. Near the entrance to the dining room, John Ward and Kandi Lilley had a panning for gold demonstration going which attracted the younger rockhounds.

Along the wall of the main hallway a number of excellent exhibits gave visitors an opportunity to see what the most interesting parts of the mineral and gem world are all about. Sunday River Gems came first with large quartz crystal cluster from Mt. Ida, Arkansas. Rocks to Gems from Chester, Maine, exhibited calcite crystals in clamshells from Fort Drum, Fla., that are from two to three million years old, maybe from a time when Florida was mostly under water. Another exhibit showed specimens from Australia such as a fossilized wasp nest. Another exhibit from overseas was a layout of handmade burl wood boxes that are made from a species of juniper tree that grows in the Western Atlas Mountains of North Africa. Boxes are made by residents of a small village in Morocco.

In the main show room collectors-vendors had many inexpensive items for sale. Kathy's specialty runs to earrings for gifts and there were certainly a lot of choices.

At Tom White's studio: Walking into Tom White's work shop is sometimes amusing, sometimes a trip into fantasy land people of many different sizes are standing around amidst various body parts that range in size from inches to greater than life size.

Clarence Sasser, a Vietnam Medal of Honor recipient, is just being finished. As a combat medic dropped from a chopper into an open rice paddy, he ran though a hail of fire to treat wounded soldiers and rally others from their paralysis of fear to defend themselves. Sasser was so badly wounded that he required months of rehabilitation before he could use his legs. From the field where he had struggled to save so many, 38 men were killed and 59 were wounded.

You don't see Tom's sculpture though, you see Clarence Sasser in a crouching run as he looked forty-two years ago. Sasser's image grew from a desktop creation to life sized in several stages, all still hanging around for one to see.

The second work which is growing in the studio is titled, "The Sower and the Soils." This sculpture will become an eight-foot man with an open book in his outstretched left hand, the traditional seed bag slung at his hip, striding over the soil. His stride suggests he is sowing the book's message. To see how the sower was born his "fetus" stands with other body parts on Tom's work table. The final piece will grow to an eight-foot-tall figure headed for the Billy Graham Library in Charlotte, N.C.

Tom and Marcey went to see

BEST OF SHOW PAINTING—The 21st Annual Bethel Art Fair brought 58 artists and artisans to the Bethel Common July 3, where a variety of prizes were awarded. Irene Duplissis (above) of Duplissis Studio-Gallery in Auburn won Best of Show Painting for her watercolor "Dance Ballerina," and Honorable Mention was awarded to Kathy Angel Lee of Old Orchard Beach for her fiber art painting "Marsh River." Thayden Farrington of Industry was awarded Best of Show Photography for "Reflection" and Jamie Cypher of Otisfield was awarded Honorable Mention for "Autumn Sparkle." Steven Smith of Edgcomb won Best of Show Artisan for his fine wood carving "Hoku" and Ashley Oliver of Bethel was awarded Honorable Mention for "Footed Bowl." The Purchase Awards were given to M. Dirk McKnight of Bethel for the River View Resort; Scott Perry of Farmington for the Raymond Philbrick Memorial Award; and to Ken Jorgenson of Mexico for the Lajos & Claire Matolcsy Memorial Award.

Franklin Graham with their proposal. While there, Tom was asked to make up a model — an audition — for Graham and his assistant to see — put words and drawings into three dimensions. So off the Whites went to a Hobby Lobby store (similar to Michaels) to get some clay. Back at their hotel room, Tom created the model, and it was accepted. Now on his work table, you can see the original "Hobby Lobby" sower and another figure — the sower that grew up.

A new Main Street porch: My in-town eyes and ears, Steve Seames, tipped me off to look at the new porch the Bonnemas built recently. The new addition looks to be a close copy of an earlier porch in the same place. In 1931 The Citizen printed a special edition that included a photo of the Ernest Walker house, owner at that time, with porch.

From 1941-1955, the Chadbourne family lived there. During that time, the "1931 porch" was still there. Bob Chadbourne said that a larger wrap-around porch covered the side of their house which faces the Lenny Shaw office. And it was a great sleeping porch in the summertime.

The Bonnema's barn contains the more interesting story in my opinion. It was built with timbers salvaged from the only town hall Bethel ever built; that event was in 1841. Town meetings were held in the "new" town hall until 1871. The building was located on the Intervale Road between the Eyp-per/Farwell road and School House Brook Road.

At the 1871 town meeting voters instructed the selectmen to hire Pattee's Hall on Spring Street for future town meetings. At the same time the moderator auctioned the town hall building to the highest bidder. Abernathy Grover, who built the Bonnema house, was high bidder at $67; the next year he moderated the annual town meeting at Pattee's Hall. After 1871 Bethel voters never agreed to build another town hall; but in 1889 they did vote for a lock-up (the article was for both a town hall and a lock-up, or one or the other). At the 1982 town meeting, voters approved buying the Cole Block from the Bethel Savings Bank for $1.

Obituary

STANLEY TURKEY

Stanley Turkey, that popular resident bird of Mayville, died July 1, 2010 after being viciously attacked and eaten by a cruel predator. Her feathered remains were discovered by Hays Bennett while he was out for his daily walk.

No more will Stanley brighten the days of her many fans who looked for her appearances on the yellow line of Route 2 as she performed her daring antics. She will especially be missed by her neighborhood friends that live from Rite-Aid to Gourmet in a Pinch. Her dare-devil episodes never failed to entertain those who witnessed her many close calls, especially the ones that involved big trucks.

Farewell Stanley, you will be sadly missed.

The Fishing Trip: In the last several years, drift boat fishing on the Androscoggin has emerged as a new sportsman's vacation activity. The essential elements of this sport seem to be: (1) river regularly stocked with fish (2) a drift boat with some crew and (3) patience.

Various websites have this to say about drift boat fishing: roomy, allows stand-up fly casting, used primarily in the West's big rivers, expensive and requires a trailer. Prices I found on the Internet ran from $2,000 to over $12,000. High-end boats are made of wood and the ones around here are fiberglass composition.

Friday, Jeff Parsons invited me to go along on a fishing trip from Gilead. Dan Emidy would be the guide. Fred Seibert from the Jolly Drayman/Briar Lea would be going, too. A drift boat trip from Gilead to Bethel would be an all-day trip. We exited at West Bethel. The day was sunny, the water was warm and the fish stayed home. Fred had the front-seat position and got a fine lesson in fly casting from Dan. I did too but I practiced my technique later from the riverbank and not from the boat.

The boat had an anchor which we dropped quite often to allow fishing from a spot that looked promising; they were not that day however. The river was low and we scraped bottom a number of times. Overall I would say that drift boat fishing would appeal to the more than casual fisherman.

Maine Mineralogy group: Last Thursday a large group from the Fernwood Cove Summer Camp for Girls in Harrison spent a good part of the day at the Maine Mineralogy Sluice located at Bethel Outdoor Adventure. Groups like this one represent a sizable part of the public attracted to our local mineral and gem experiences. Under the big tent, girls were gathered into three groups, some at tables searching through a gravel and mineral mix for a possible gold nugget, clustered around Seabury Lyon asking questions and at the sluice trough.

The Maine Mineralogy Expeditions consists of the Parsons' Bethel Outdoor Adventure, Jim Mann and Mt. Mann's museum and crystal cave and Seabury Lyon. This group also runs mineral expeditions to the Bumpus Mine. The mine is open to group tours run by MME through the auspices of Larry Stifler and Mary Mc-

This website includes e-mailed comments sent in by individuals, families and groups. One e-mail came from a family that enjoyed having the Mt. Mann museum and cave available for them to see as a rainy-day option. These e-mails also praise Seabury Lyon for the way he handles mine tours and answers questions. What you see and do on a mine tour is covered very well by a video tour that is part of their website. It does not take a great stretch of imagination to see how the MME's program could be folded into the future Maine Mineral, Gem and Memorabilia Museum.

Selectmen's meeting: Mr. and Mrs. Woodleigh Hughes attended the public hearing on their applications for town licenses to be innkeepers and to sell alcoholic drinks at their forthcoming new business, Mill Hill Inn. The inn is due to open Sept. 9, both applications were approved.

Bethel members on a Regional Wind Power Committee: Stan Howe and Lawrence Engdahl will represent town government; Town Manager Doar will appoint two members of the public for the same committee. Two other agenda items dealt with traffic on Mason Street; it will remain two-way unless new circumstances dictate otherwise. Contents of a draft citizen survey were discussed; the length of the proposed survey sounds ominous. It may be mailed with tax bills in September.

West Bethel

By Lorrie Hoeh

The first time Mike and I went to Algonquin Park in Ontario was in July 1956, three months after our wedding. Rae and Sig Peck, Hiram College friends of ours, went with us for a week of wilderness, fishing, and fun. It certainly was fun, because we have been back at least 40 times since, and it is still one of our favorite vacation spots. Moreover, our three daughters, their spouses, and our six grandchildren have all been to the Park and seem to love it as much as we do.

We went in on a train that first year, and for reasons too complex and incredible to explain, the 25-mile trip from Kearney, Ontario, to Eagle Lake Landing on Rain Lake (a lean-to building across the lake from the camp we were headed for) took about six hours. We arrived around midnight on a moonless night, and fortunately for us, the camp owner, Ralph Bice, was with us to lead the way across the lake.

Said train never ran again after 1956, the tracks were taken up, and the old railroad bed became a primitive roadway to the foot of Rain Lake, and part of the Western Up-lands Hiking Trail from there on. The rickety wooden trestle over a deep gulch was torn down, and I never missed that because I didn't much like the way it swayed as we went over it! The camp is now owned by Ralph's daughter, our friend Marilyn MacKay, with her daughter, Kelly, doing upkeep since Rod MacKay passed on two years ago.

Algonquin Park is the oldest provincial park in Ontario and one of the largest in all of Canada. It comprises 7,725 square kilometers and was created in 1893 (by some very wise and foresighted people) as a wildlife sanctuary, and to protect the headwaters of five major rivers flowing from the Park. Logging was and is allowed in accordance with forest management plans, except for the Highway 60 corridor, the Park is largely a wilderness area which is much appreciated by Canadians, not to mention a few Americans we know.

The first two nights at camp this year, starting on July 4, the little cabin next door to ours housed a delightful young French fellow (from Bordeaux, France) who now lives in Toronto and makes his living as a freelance journalist for French publications and TV shows in Canada. Charlot Rouyer specializes in environmental and health topics and seems to practice what he preaches. He was very patient with me, allowing me to practice my French; I was with him, and making me feel very comfortable doing so. We bid adieu on Tuesday afternoon, promising to keep in touch via the Internet.

Our Boston daughter, Kate Griffin, and her husband, Ken, arrived on Monday afternoon to join us for the next five days. We portaged, fished, ate our fill of lake trout, and had a great visit as well. Kate and Ken left in clear, bright weather and on calm waters Saturday morning Mike and I fished the "Glory Hole" on Rain Lake for a couple of hours with sundry nibbles but no real strikes, so we paddled home and put away the trolling gear for another year.

Later that day Mike and I had a leisurely paddle around the shallow cove to the right of the cabin. We saw clumps of yellow loosestrife at the water's edge, along with remnants of flag iris. We surprised a doe across the way, first deer we'd seen all week—and no moose! We also passed what may have been wild rice growing in the shallows, sheltering myriad minnows and tadpoles. Farther along Mike spotted some pink flowers which turned out to be orchids (fringed polygala, I think) in the sphagnum bog, one of many orchid varieties we've seen in the Park.

Wherever a fir tree has fallen into the water, one can expect to find minnows and tadpoles lurking among its branches. This is handy for us as we use pieces of minnow on our spoons and spinners to tease the lake trout ("togue" in Maine) into coming back for a strike. Everywhere under water is evidence of old logging activities, with sawn-end logs submerged for years and years.

Birds we saw and heard included thrushes—very, wood thrush, hermit thrush, Swainson's thrush; chestnut-sided warblers, yellowthroat, white-throated sparrow; also a family of Canada geese, male, female, and two teenagers; and, of course, the gulls who swing by to clean up the fish guts we leave for them in the lake.

On Sunday morning the 11th, we left camp a little before 9 with an unprecedented calm lake all the way to the end. On the way we saw loons and herons and took some photos of undetermined quality as of this writing. Have yet to download the camera's contents. Once more we regretted having to leave but look forward to next year when we hope to return.

While we were away, I received an e-mail from Pauline Applin, asking me to mention that the Grange flea market will be open on Friday, the 16th. But it will NOT be open on Saturday the 17th so that members can enjoy the Mollycoddett Day festivities. Please make a note of that.

We here at the Garden of Eden will be celebrating not only Mollycoddett Days, but a few notable birthdays. Our granddaughter, Molly Siegel, turned 16 yesterday, July 14. Her granddad and my spouse, Mike, will have his 80th on Sunday the 18th, and our brother-in-law, Fred Smith, will have his 80th in August. Since Fred and his wife, Ruth, who is Mike's sis-

Upton

OOPS! I have corrections to make. Piper and Seaver are Ginny Williamson's great-grandchildren. Their mom is Pamela Johnston and they all live in Tennessee, not Texas. Sorry.

Nancy Thew and Mr. Bub were down by their fish pond last week. Mr. Bub put his big ole nose against Nancy and pushed her into the fish pond. Can't you imagine her horse laughing to himself as she climbed out, soaking wet?

The theme for the parade for the Upton Fun Day/Sesquicentennial celebration, to assist in your float entries, is "Life in Upton 150 years ago." ... happy creating. Line-up for the parade will be at the junction of Route 26 and East B Hill at 9:30 a.m. Spectators will be the judges on the floats.

Entries for the pie-baking contest, the floral arrangement contest, and the photo contest need to be at the Ladies Aid Building on Aug. 21 between 8:30 and 9 a.m. for judging. All contests will have both an adult category and a children under 12 category. The photos need to be framed and matted. Floral arrangement entries will be dried or fresh arrangements. A DJ has been confirmed for a street dance, weather permitting, on Saturday night. Plans are reaching completion, but there is plenty of time to offer suggestions and help contact Carol Norman by e-mail at smilinggabby@yahoo.com or by calling her at 533-2028 for more info. Hopefully you and your family and friends have already put in a request (if needed) to have the day off so you can spend it in Upton!

We enjoyed a Saturday visit from Jeanne Abbott of East Sumner, her son, Seth, and his wife, Rachel.

Jes Bernier spent her second birthday at her grandparents' house, enjoying her cake and gifts while the rest of the family enjoyed her.

Bob and Deb Thompson of Hampton, N.H., spent last week at their camp on Back Street. Deb said they actually thought of cutting their stay short because of the heat not that the temperatures were lower in New Hampshire, but the opportunity to stay cool with fans and such were more available! They toughed it out though!

Shortly after I submitted my column last Monday, Bob called me from the vet's where he'd taken Tucker for minor surgery on his jaw. Tucker's X-rays revealed bone cancer in the last stages. We made the very difficult decision to have him euthanized, knowing that otherwise his last few days or weeks would have been spent in extreme pain. We appreciate the condolences we've received. He was so much more than "just a dog" to us.

I've been enjoying a book written by Glenn Wendell Starkley, published in 1920 entitled "Maine Its History, Resources and Government." According to this book, an act passed in 1851 prohibiting the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors in any part of the state and was thus the first state to take such action. In 1884 prohibition was made part of the constitution. In 1911, a strong effort was made to change the constitution. Although the legislature voted in favor, it was defeated in a state-wide election. Finally, the whole nation followed suit and adopted the prohibition. Stated at the time of publishing: "The sale of intoxicants has never been legalized in the state." This is one example of the well-known idiom "as Maine goes, so goes the nation." Was Maine the first state to change the prohibition as well?

Hopefully you'll enjoy your week! Selah.

The recent spell of warm weather... Start again. The recent spell of darn hot weather made many folks uncomfortable. Grandmother used to say, "It's not the heat, it's the humidity." It brought folks out in hordes to neighborhood pools, area ponds, streams and rivers. And it all felt real good.

You may recall back last winter when we told you of Bob Brown's hospitalization and sadly losing his dog, Sam, at the same time. Most folks know by now that Bob is back on his feet and last Saturday he got a new Lab puppy to join him at Plumbago Mountain Farm. The puppy's name, as you might guess, is Sam.

Sara, Makala and Shawnee Worcester have traveled to Pennsylvania to help Sara's great-grandmother, Francis Carson, celebrate her 100th birthday. About 50 local area residents and relatives traveled by caravan overnight to complete the trip.

MISS MOLLYCKETT DESCENDANT OF EVENT FOUNDER

As has been the tradition for 50 years, a Miss Mollyckett has been chosen to preside over the Mollyckett Days festivities this weekend. Ashley Swan, daughter of Ross and Becky Swan, submitted an essay that convinced the selection committee that she was a great candidate for the position. Candidates were asked to submit an essay on the theme of "What serving my community means to me." The committee reviewed the submitted essays without knowing the identity of the candidates. Ashley is the great-granddaughter of one of the event founders, Norma Jodrey. Ashley is the granddaughter of Ellie and Arlan Jodrey of Bethel and Hugh and Denise Swan of Greenwood. She will be a senior at Gould Academy in the fall.

cooled down enough at night to sleep without a fan.

My brother, Steve McLain, tried to get out to do some work in his garden, but the rain forced him to stay inside and work in his garage. The weeds will still be waiting in the garden on the next sunny day.

Lise McLain reports that she had to stop and wait the other day on Route 26 while a family of geese crossed the road just a little south of Locke Mills.

Hugh and I spent most of the weekend at the Gem Show this past weekend. The turnout was a little less than last year, but the rainy weather might have had something to do with that.

The Gilead Fire Department set up at the Gem Show and sold hamburgers and hot dogs. Many thanks to them for their help.

Luckily, they did not have any fire calls. They had two during the week. There was a truck/moose accident near the state line one night and last Friday they had to help shut down the North Road due to a tree that had fallen into the road.

It has been quite the eventful week for the neighborhood. First we need to wish both Kathy Hebert and Skype (Kenneth) Crockett a belated Happy Birthday (July 6). Bettyann and Sonny Hastings had a small family reunion at Small Point, with all the kids and grandkids.

Last Wednesday, Arlene Harrington spent a delightful day with her oldest sister, Judith Smith, who was here visiting from Bucksport.

On Saturday, July 10, the Hebert family and also Neil and Linda Olson attended Jason Hebert's and Ann Lakeman's wedding at Folsoms Hangar, Greenville Land Airport. Angie told me it was well worth the ride and all had a great time. Congratulations to the young couple from the whole neighborhood.

Mollyckett Days weekend is coming right up. Be sure to go to Stan Howe's on Saturday, the 17th. The Alder River Grange will be selling ice cream and brownies on his front lawn.

By now you all know that DK (Danny) Kennah passed away on July 5. My son Ryan asked me to share the dedication he wrote for him. "DK was a very caring and loyal friend to all. He always had a joke or a story to put a smile on your face when you needed it most, and he was always there to talk to. If you needed something, he was there to help you, even if it was his only jacket to keep you warm. But most importantly, he was always there to be your friend no matter what. He touched many hearts and lives and will be truly missed and remain loved by all."

Please, make sure to let me know your news, tips or whatever you want to share. Watch for the new Trivia question in the next Citizen.

Till next week.

Newry

By Seneca Corriveau

Happy Thursday to my fellow Newryans and beyond. Of course happy whatever day to you too if it's not Thursday when you finally get a chance to sit down and read the paper.

How lovely July is now that the humidity has finally broken. I haven't actually watched the weather lately to see if our fortune will hold, but living here in Maine, what does it really matter anyway? Watching the seven-day forecast on 6, 8, or 13 has led me to the notion that perhaps all that meteorologists are taught in school is how to play roulette. Do you suppose that they pick a day and give the wheel a spin to determine the weather?

On Sunday, I took Kaiya and Sam and a friend of theirs rock hounding. Only the promise of a stop at the beach stayed their interest at the mine. They are good for a couple of hours, but I don't know when to say when once my hands are in the dirt. Needless to say a torrential downpour seized us before we left. The rain was so intense that the sides of the road leading out of the mine had washed away in places. Unfortunately for the kids, they didn't get to swim, but they sure got wet! We had to change into our swimsuits just to dry off.

So Monday, after a hot trip to Norway for grain with five children in tow, they were again promised a stop at the beach. As we got closer, a massive dark cloud loomed above our destination. Sure enough, it started to rain but we made a run for it anyway. We were already in the water by the time we heard the thunder rumbling overhead. The threat of lightning is not realized by laughing, splashing children. I had to be the meanie though, "Everyone out." They weren't impressed but I did notice smiles on their faces as they darted back to the car dripping of lake water rather than just rain. The sky was dappled with the blue and white of a calm and sunny day, intermixed with the dark gray storm clouds that dumped an impressive amount of rain on us once again. As you may have guessed, five miles down the road, sunshine again. We shall see what the weekend forecast has in store for us.

I ran into Norman Davis at the Gem Show at Telstar. He had an impressive display of wares for sale, beautiful stones and specimens. If you didn't make it to the show, he has a shop for you to visit at his home on Crystal Drive. He told me that the zucchinis were ready, soon to be followed by peppers, and the wide array of potted herbs are ready too. So, its official, the farm stand is open.

On my way home the other day I noticed that out in the hay field across from Norman's there were both the round baler and the square baler, ready to put to use.

Anyway, that's all for this week. As always, feel free (or obligated) to contact me at sabcart@gmail.com or the good ole' fashioned way at 824-0836. "Do not let what you cannot do interfere with

Andover

By Melinda Averill

Hello Andover friends. Swimming lessons start next week at Roxbury Pond. Sign ups are Monday, July 19 at noon at the main beach. We had a busy weekend; my brother Chris' oldest son got married Saturday in Portland. So we stayed right down overnight and went to the ocean the next day. The wedding was held at the Irish Heritage Center, right down the street from Mercy Hospital. It was a very beautiful old church.

Sympathy is extended to two Andover families, with the passing of their loved ones.

Stacy and Cindy Gammon, for the loss of Cindy's mother, Nancy Conley, on June 24. She and her husband, "Red" Conley, lived in Rumford. Funeral Services were held last Wednesday at Meader and Son Funeral Home, with the Reverend Jane Rich officiating.

The family of Kenney Learned, who passed away on July 3, after several months of ill health. A memorial service will be held at the Andover Town Hall on Saturday, July 24, at 2 p.m. with the Reverend Jane Rich and Pastor Kenneth Wagstaff officiating.

Ron and Dee Fournier are rejoicing that they are now hooked up to CMP electricity. They were getting tired of troubles with their generator and tired of paying large bills for propane to run it, and have been anticipating having reliable power for about a year, since Vernon Davis ran new power lines up Kings Highway past the Fournier homestead. As I understand it, the hookup was delayed by problems involved in making sure the new lines and poles met CMP standards.

The National Forest Service has been working on the dirt road that connects the Flat Road to Songo Pond via the national forest in Albany. The completed parts are much smoother than previously, but the section between the Patty Brook Waterfowl Marsh road and the other National Forest road in the direction of Songo seems narrower than before because of the way it was raised about two feet above the old road surface without widening the base; the new gravel fill tapers from the width of the old road to a more narrow surface atop the fill.

On Sunday evening I rode my bike to Crocker Pond campground for exercise and to check on the progress of the road construction. The Flat Road end has been nicely graded and smoothed except for a short stretch before the Crocker Pond road cut-off, where they have dumped coarse gravel filled with two-inches of crushed rock. This part is a little bumpy. In the turnout on the right side of the road just short of the campground, there is a very old 10 foot or 12 foot camper occupied by an older, rather disheveled looking gentleman with a large, black lab dog. There is no tow vehicle in evidence. Dan Whitman told me Friday evening about this guy, who told Dan and Nesta Littlefield that he has no way of getting food because somebody left him there with no way of getting to town. He was asking for handouts. Sunday evening, a fellow in a Jeep, camping at Crocker stopped me and asked me about the "abandoned camper" fellow with the dog. The Jeep fellow was on his way to town to get some groceries for the "abandoned fellow." I told him that all I know was what Dan had told me on Friday, wished him luck and praised him on being a good Samaritan!

On Monday morning Chris Merrill came to our house in response to a problem we have been having with low-water pressure and air in our water system. Being a good plumber, Chris checked all the plumbing connections on our water pipe coming from the well. Finding no air leaks, he doubled the number of hose clamps on the connections for "good measure." Then he checked the integrity of the pipe between the house and well by trying to pump water back into the well. No leaks there, either, but with the pump running, we could still see air bubbles inside the water pipe where it comes through a plastic elbow to the pump! Then we used my irrigation pump to pump the water out of the well down to a level where Chris could remove the end of the pipe with the strainer and check valve. After cleaning and checking these components, Chris replaced them in the well. He hooked the house pump back up and checked for air bubbles. Still bubbles!

How is air getting into the water when there are no leaks? Chris said, "The only thing I can figure is that the vacuum created by the pump sucking water blocked by an obstruction sucks some of the air right out of the water, like a fish does when it breathes! If there are no leaks, there must be a blockage in the pipe between the well and the house (about 150 feet). I don't have a snake that long to check for obstructions, so how can we do that? I know. The pump tank holds about five gallons of water when the pump is working to shut off pressure. I'll just plumb it to pump that five gallons back down the pipe into the well. That should blow out anything in the pipe. Go back down to the well and remove the check valve again."

Chris got the plumbing done and took a five-gallon

The Ellis River Riders had a large turnout July 4 holiday weekend, beginning with a game show July 2. On Saturday an open show was held including both English and Western riders. Sunday wound down with a pleasure trail ride. The next game show will be Aug. 7 at 6 p.m. The next open show is Aug. 8 at 9 a.m. Shows (located on Airport Road off Route 5 in Andover) are free to spectators with parking and food available at The Feedbag food booth. Pictured here is rider Stacey Scotia.

pail down into the well to catch the water that would get blown back down the pipe when I opened the valve at the house. As I opened the valve to let the water blow back to the well, Chris yelled to shut the pump off. He had caught a long "snake" of rusty red material from the water pipe in the bucket! We repeated this procedure two more times to insure that we had all the goop out of the pipe. Then, after connecting everything for normal running, we had good water pressure into the house with no air bubbles! Apparently, over the past 20 years enough minerals had collected in the pipe to severely restrict the flow of water.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday school at 9:15, morning worship at 10:30, evening service at 6 p.m. Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m. is prayer meeting. Sunday, July 25 at 6 p.m. Evangelist Steve Schwanke will be speaking.

Ten members of Judith Grover tent 17 attended the Maine

Mike and Jean Stowell of Flagler Beach, Fla., Sara Carlson of Palm Coast, Fla., Sue and Keith Bartlett of Bethel, Jonny and Renie Stowell of Shirley, Mass., Martha Stowell White of Norway, Andy and Marlene Stowell of Alta Loma, Calif., Brian and Linda Stowell of Bryant Pond, and Rebecca Lloyd of Rumford.

There were also many children and grandchildren there. Everyone enjoyed plenty of good food and conversation. The youngest attendee, Zachary Adams, age 7-1/2 months, was happily passed around, providing lots of good photo ops.

Hope everyone had a good holiday weekend. It sure was hot enough!

Historical Society
The Historical Society Museum is open each Saturday during the summer from 1 to 4 p.m. They have t-shirts to sell. Curator Larry Billings and President Olive Risko watched the museum Fourth of July weekend. Three people were in.

The Historical Society needs your participation and support. You can make a difference for the organization if you only get involved. There is a nice research library and a museum store. Also, there is an ongoing book sale, which are $1 each. Donations are always welcome and a bowl for that purpose is by the guest book. The museum has extensive local memorabilia and a fine collection of decorative arts.

There is information on mills and farming years ago, including farm implements on the second floor and a large photo of Mann's Mill log yard. Have you seen the lovely wedding dress and other vintage fashions on the first floor, along with many men's uniforms?

Curator Larry Billings has given a large ceramic angel to the Historical Society. A framed map of Europe was the special exhibit. They have books on many countries of the world as well as all kinds of travel books. The Historical Society notes that change is hard, but sometimes it is necessary even though we are devoted to the past.

Dept. DUVCW Convention in Waterville on Friday, July 2. It was a good convention. Judith Grover 17 held its meeting on Monday, July 12, at the Grange Hall.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, July 5. Next meeting is July 19.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens met on Thursday, July 1, at the town Conference Room.

A potluck dinner was held and Wayne Howe showed slides of his Putt Putt Cars. Everyone enjoyed them. The August picnic will be held at Norma's house with a silent auction. Each one bring your own place setting and a dish or something to share for the picnic, plus something for the silent auction.

Andy and Marlene Stowell of Alta Loma, Calif., were visitors of Brian and Linda Stowell over the Fourth of July Weekend. While they were here, they all attended the annual Stowell reunion, which was held in West Bethel, at the home of Jonathan and Jennifer Head.

Tim and Rachel Adams, Ben, Josh, and Zack of Fayette, spent the weekend at Hathaway's Hideaway, and also attended the reunion. There was a good crowd, with nine siblings present: George and Mary Stowell of Falmouth,

West Paris

By Joyce Lamb

We all have been wishing for warmer weather and less rain and now all wishes have been granted. Each day for the week the thermometer has been up to nearly a 100 degrees. The weather people are promising the same for the coming week. Over the weekend heavy rain fell which gave us some relief and watered the gardens and lawns.

Every where along the roads are orange lilies in full bloom. The daisies have come and gone. Black-eyed Susan's will soon follow.

On July 18 at the West Sumner Universalist Church the Rev. Herbert Adams will be the speaker at 11 a.m. He was formerly the minister at the West Paris and Norway Unitarian Universalist churches. The organist is Beth Chaffee. A bountiful coffee hour follows. All are welcome.

Beverly and Vince Stevens entertained family for dinner on Sunday; Stacy, Larry, and Dustin.

My twin granddaughters, Carolyn and Catherine Lamb, graduated with honors from 8th grade at Oxford Hills Grammar School and will attend Oxford Hills School in the fall.

Muffin spends a lot of her time watching the birds on the lawn. Mother starlings and mourning doves are out feeding their babies. They do grow very fast and look about the size of their parents, but run after the larger ones with their beaks open waiting to be fed, so they must be their children.

I hope everyone is coping with the heat. I find as I get older I don't do well with extreme temps of any kind. I hoped that I would do better in the heat as I feel the cold more than I used to but, alas it hasn't made much difference as far as the heat is concerned. Let it get over 80 degrees and I am wiped. The Pastor Justin, of our church, kindly let one of the fans blow right on me last Wednesday evening while I worked at putting the songs into the power point. It was more of a chore than the fun I usually find it as we were using a new laptop which had no separate mouse; and I am not familiar with the workings of the built-in mouse; but, thanks to the pastor's brother-in-law, Fred, who is very good with computers of all kinds, I was able to get it done.

Everyone on the road crew has been working very hard on the bridge on the Greenwood Road just below my house. They kept Chloe entertained for the better part of three days, which was nice because she broke the tie-out cable on her run and I have not been able to get a new one yet. I was very grateful that she only went to the head of the street and then came running back. I am in no condition, with two injured knees, to go after her when she gets loose so I try to make sure it doesn't happen. Anyhow, to get back to my original subject, the crew put in long days in this extreme heat and it could not have been easy so I hope everyone appreciates what they have done.

Crystal and Al Lake returned home Tuesday after delivering their grandchildren, Haylee and Hunter, to their home in Texas. Crystal, however, managed to get laryngitis somewhere along the road, so she has not been able to talk much since she got back. Debbie Brown has a summer cold and I guess there are a lot more bugs than just the usual summer ones, flying around.

My daughter Marcia Smith's mother-in-law, Patty Smith, recently got in a car accident and broke three ribs, and then this week she fell in her home and hit her head and re-injured the ribs, and so is presently in the hospital in Houlton. It never seems to rain but it pours, as the saying goes.

Guess that is all for this week. Have a good one and God bless.

Waterford

By Rockie Graham

It is mid-July and the weather is hot, hazy and humid; not to mention huge rainstorms with flash floods.

Our new cellar has flooded twice and now we find that the guys who poured the concrete messed up big time. The floor is uneven and the drains are not put in properly, or at least they are not working properly. Sunday we had three to four inches of water on the floor!

I missed the Norway Arts Festival because of the rain. Given that it was raining so hard here, I didn't want to drive to Norway on the chance that I could find a parking place not too far from where I wanted to be. I definitely do not want to walk far in the rain.

Guess I am just a "whoosee" these days. In any case, I stayed home in the dry and missed all the fun in the rain.

This weekend, July 16-18, is the Waterford World's Fair. It has everything, a midway, rides, food, exhibits, etc. There is even entertainment nights and a senior citizens' lunch.

Also in Waterford on July 20 at Papoose Pond Campground, beano is from 7:30 p.m. The money made goes to Stoneham Rescue.

Breakfasts are up and running on Wednesdays at the Wilkins House from 7:30 to 10 a.m. Good food and good company for a good cause.

Mollycoddle Day in its new two-day festival is July 17 and 18 in Bethel. There is a parade, Entrance is free and it is good family fun.

Friends Jim and Claire are up for a visit. Dave has known them since high school.

Last night, Monday, Dave finally caught one of the critters that has been eating our chickens.

It was a big old raccoon. I still think there is also a weasel eating them, but we shall see. I'll know if no more chickens are killed tonight.

That is all for this week. Enjoy the summer fun and be careful.

Bethel Rotary Club:

Freiday and Rasor honored

Dave Freiday and Dick Rasor, both of Bethel, have been named "Paul Harris Fellows" by the Rotary Club of Bethel. Three Bethel Rotarians cited Freiday and Rasor for this honor to acknowledge their efforts in giving of their time and resources to support humanitarian projects, youth and senior programs and other activities which enhance the lives of the people of Bethel. "Although not Rotary Club members, they are Rotarians in their hearts and actions as they give of themselves to better the lives of others," said Joseph Arizzi, newly installed president of the Rotary Club of Bethel.

The Paul Harris Fellowship is named for Paul Harris who founded Rotary with three business associates in Chicago in 1905. The Fellowship was established in his honor in 1957 to express appreciation to any Rotarian who contributes $1,000 to the humanitarian and educational programs of the Rotary Foundation. Walter Hatch and Cynthia and Bob Laux of the Rotary Club of Bethel contributed $1,000 to the Rotary Foundation. Instead of receiving a Paul Harris fellowship themselves,

Walter Hatch chose to present his fellowship to Dave Freiday and Cynthia and Bob Laux presented their fellowship to Dick Rasor. In both cases the presentation was given in recognition of a shared purpose with the objectives and mission of the Rotary Foundation to build world understanding and peace.

Dave Freiday of Earth Design Associates has been a tireless worker and contributor to many Rotary projects. He helps set up for the Senior Christmas Luncheon, furnishes prizes for contributors to Christmas for Children, moves all kinds of articles for the Rotary Yard Sale and provides donuts and coffee for all workers. He makes himself and his Bobcat available for such Rotary projects as wood cutting and splitting in order to furnish wood to families in need. He also contributed to the landscaping at Telstar High School. Robin Zinchuk of the Bethel Chamber calls Freiday the Chamber's #1 volunteer. He carries and sets up tables and chairs for all the Chamber events as well as helping the Chamber staff in the office. Dave Freiday is Bethel's "go to guy" when help is needed.

Bob Laux identifies Dick Rasor, owner of the Bethel

Inn, as the Bethel Community's "un-sung hero." Dick has generously allowed Rotary to hold its fundraising golf tournament at the Bethel Inn for the past 15 years. During this time Rotary has raised in excess of $100,000 to support local and international projects such as polio plus, Hope Village in Haiti, student scholarships and community organizations such as Androscoggin Hospice Care, the Bethel Library, Mahoosuc Kids, the Skate Park and Playground. Rasor himself has steadfastly supported numerous youth programs in Bethel including Mahoosuc Kids, allowing them swimming access to the Inn's property on Songo Pond and the Youth Golf Program, sponsoring the golf teams of Telstar High School. He is also a sponsor of the community fireworks for July 4th and Mollycoddle Day and has hosted numerous community meetings and events at the Bethel Inn.

The Rotary Club of Bethel meets at the Bethel Inn on Tuesdays at 7:30 a.m. Rotary needs you! For more information about the Rotary Club and its activities, call 824-0080.

NTL: Summer programs

NTL Institute has returned to Bethel, where it began in 1947, for its 63rd season of personal and professional growth programs. This summer NTL's programs will be held primarily at the Bethel Inn Conference Center, with one session at Gould Academy. Participants and staff will travel to Bethel from across the United States, as well as from many countries including Canada, India, Netherlands, Singapore, and others. The NTL Summer Office will be located on the second floor of the Bethel Inn with Christine Greenleaf as the Administrative Coordinator. Christine has worked with staff and participants in a variety of NTL positions since 1968. She can be reached by calling 824-2175 ext. 419. The first week's session, which ran from July 10-15, was Appreciative Inquiry: Human Interaction Laboratory led by Liz Workman, Jane Watkins, Mette Jacobsgaard, and Maureen McKenna. This is part of a certificate program which focuses on the assets and values of employees, aligning them with their company's goals to create a stronger, more productive work environment. As in the past, NTL will offer Sunrise Seminars during each week. These are 45-minute sessions presented by NTL staff on a variety of topics. They will be held in the Bethel Inn Conference Center on Tuesday and Thursday throughout July at 7 a.m. Titles will be posted around town or interested persons can call Christine. Sunrise Seminars are open to the public at no charge.

Bethel Historical Society: Major gift received

The Bethel Historical Society has received a major gift of $10,000 from society life members Larry Stifler and his wife, Mary McFadden, for the "Stanley Russell Howe Lecture Fund," an endowment established earlier this year by the society's Board of Trustees to honor Howe's thirty-five years of extraordinary service to the organization. Reflecting on this tribute to Howe, Board President William D. Andrews said, "Over his years as the society's curator and, later, executive director, Stan diligently developed programs to bring important scholars and speakers to the community, and thus creating a special lecture in his name seemed an appropriate way to honor him. We are happy that he agreed."

"This generous donation from Larry Stifler and Mary McFadden, who have been generous supporters of the society, has been added to financial gifts already received from many thoughtful individuals, bringing the total amount in this special fund to over $20,000," stated Randall Bennett, the society's current executive director. He added, "This endowment, which will continue to grow, has been invested under society investment policies, and only its interest income will be used to fund the annual lecture."

Bennett also noted that this large gift will now make it possible to engage the services of lecturers of the highest caliber for these programs. Reacting to news of this remarkable gesture of support, Stan Howe observed, "When this Fund was established, Larry and Mary expressed great interest in it and soon made the suggestion that they would match the $10,000 original goal when it was met."

They did, and I am most grateful for this superb support. Now we can all look forward to the first lecture in 2011, which they and 119 other donors have made possible."

Maine Veterans' Home: Maine Military Event

Plans have been finalized and the show is set to begin! On Saturday, July 17, at the Maine Veterans' Home in South Paris, the Maine Military Event will be held. "This day has been carefully and thoughtfully planned to present a well-rounded day to celebrate the many facets of military life," states Joe Cooney, chairman of Western Maine Veterans Advisory Committee (WMVAC). "There has been cooperation from many groups and individuals to make this plan a reality. Deb Walo, chairperson of this event, has worked tirelessly to line up attractions that will be entertaining and meaningful to all ages. Representatives from local Veteran service organizations have been involved in carrying out every needed detail," added Cooney.

The festivities will begin at 9 a.m., with opening ceremonies including a flag raising. Various Military vehicles will be on display on the grounds. There will be a Civil War encampment on display. Maine Veterans Services will have a mobile unit on site to answer any questions from veterans or their families. There will be a display from the Maine Military Museum in Portland. Live music will be performed by local groups "Jarosady" and "Davina." DJ services will be provided by TH's DJ service. Professional photographer, Judith Haines, will be available to do requested photos of the events, visitors, or attractions. There will be raffles and giveaways, and a barbecue lunch including burgers, hot dogs and chicken will be served between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. Admission is free to this event, and is open to the public. Parking will be available at the Paris Elementary School, with free shuttle service being provided by the Maine Veterans' Home. For more information about this event, call Deb Walo at 539-9021.

The Wilkins Hall is near the library, next to the Waterford Congregational Church on Plummer Hill Road. Admission is free of charge, but donations to the library are appreciated.

The Western Maine Gem, Mineral and Jewelry Show drew several hundred people to Telstar High School Saturday. Above, one of the dealers in Rocks to Gem. At right, a sample of Maine tourmaline from the Mt. Marie Quarry.

700—even professionals never stop learning!) He has performed magic since he literally ran away with the circus in his early teens. Angelique's background is in theatre for children; she performed her first play at the ripe old age of 5, and much later co-founded the Krackerjack Theatre Co. and the Driftwood Players. For 14 years with those companies, she performed at nearly 1,000 New England libraries and schools. The Steelgraves have worked as a team since 2002, and perform hundreds of shows a year up and down the East Coast. Every year they create a new show just for libraries. This year, "Make A Splash With Magic!" features magic tricks about water and the beach, for an ocean full of fun. The Steelgraves live in East Waterboro.

Mahoosuc Land Trust:

Summer hikes schedule

Join the Mahoosuc Land Trust and enjoy the properties, views and outdoor opportunities you have helped protect and conserve. Great family and friends outings.

Come alone or bring a group. Each hike will have a leader familiar with the trails and history and attributes of the areas. Questionable hiking weather? Need directions or more information? Call the Mahoosuc Land Trust Office, 824-3806 for an update on the hike status or for directions and information.

Scheduled Hikes:

July 24 Rumford Whitecap 9 a.m.
Meet at the trail head parking area on the East Andover Road, Rumford (approx-mately 1/4 mile after turning from Andover Road to East Andover Road). Dan Elliott and Jon Starr will lead the intermediate hike to the summit that offers a 360-degree view. Approximately three hours round trip. Could be some blueberries along the way.

Aug. 4 Puzzle Mountain 9 a.m.

Meet in the parking lot for the Grafton Loop Trail, approximately 4.5 miles up Route 26 from Route 2. Advanced intermediate hike to the summit of Puzzle Mountain, 2,400 feet of elevation gain, about 2-1/2 hours up; at 1-1/2 hours up is a beautiful set of ledges that could be your destination as well. Bob Stewart will lead the hike.

Sept. 18 First Mountain 10 a.m.

Meet at First Mountain, North Road, Shelburne, N.H. Hike will be a five-mile loop over the top of First Mountain and Middle Mountain to see the spectacular views of the Presidentials and the Mahoosuc Mountains. Moderate hike with 1,000 feet of elevation the first mile with some short, steep sections. Ginger Lawson and Larry Ely will lead the hike.

Oct. 9 Bald and Speckled 9 a.m.

Meet at 9 a.m. at the parking lot across the road from Bear River Trading Post at the junction of routes 26 and 2 in Newry. 25-minute drive and three hours of walking time. If you want to just hike Bald, about 90 minutes of walking. 123 rating: one remote pond, two above-treeline peaks, traversing three townships. Includes views of the newly acquired 4,000-acre Concord River Easement. Moderate hike with some short, steep sections, a section of trail shared by a small stream as well as the usual rocks and roots of a backcountry hiking trail.

Oxford County Mineral and Gem Association:

Gem show a success

There were several hundred people who attended the 49th Annual Western Maine Gem, Mineral and Jewelry Show this past weekend at Telstar High School. The two-day show is held every year on the second weekend of July.

Those who attended the show had a chance to win a beautiful Morganite necklace that was donated by Norman Davis of Mountain Minerals in Newry. The winner this year was Karen Ingram from Portland.

There were also 15 vendors set up with a variety of items to look over and enjoy. Three new vendors this year were JADEnterprises, Jewelry & Specialty Paintings, Jane Davis, artist and designer from Bryant Pond; Finesse Jewelry, featuring 14 karat gold and sterling silver jewelry set with faceted gems and cabochons. She also designs beaded jewelry using stones rather than glass. Nancy Marshall, owner and designer from Madison; Sunday River Gems offering a wide variety of gems, jewelry and mineral specimens, Beth and Charlie Bean, Sunday River Road, Newry.

A big attraction again this year was the spinning wheel for minerals and the silent auction. The bidding at the silent auction table got so intense at one point, sisters were bidding against each other!

The vendors' displays in the hallway were exceptional this year filled with some of the most beautiful examples of their collections.

One vendor, Ron Larrivee of Lewiston did a memorial to Priscilla Bryant Chaverie of Winthrop, who passed away recently. Priscilla probably knew as much about the local minerals and mines of Maine and elsewhere as anybody in the business. She will be sadly missed.

All in all the show was considered a success again this year according to Show Chairman Hugh Chapman. Chapman also noted that there is a lot of work that goes into putting on the show and thanks to the many volunteers who helped with set-up on Friday and break-down on Sunday. Among those volunteers were four Telstar High School students, who were working on their community service credit. Special thanks to Telstar's Principal Dan Hart, lead custodian Arlynn Hale and her crew, local electrician Ivory Currier and the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

Plans now get underway for the 2011 Gem Show.

MAHOOSUC KIDS

Enrichment opportunities for the children in SAD #44

From the Director

Summer Adventure is officially here at MKA! We have a great staff and I would like to welcome back Kyle Kuva, Amanda Coolidge, Megan Kelly, Veronica Penley, Angie Rosenberg, Tera Ingraham, Eva Thorton, Chelsea Cozzolino, & Esther Pew. New staff this summer include Erin Buthlay, Megan McCarthy, Brittany Cole, TJ O'Connor and Riley Gilbert. I would also like to thank our partners which make it possible to have such a wonderful summer program. Bryant Pond 4-H camp, Big Adventure Center, Towns of Bethel, Greenwood, and Newry, Bethel Inn & Country Club, Bethel Historical Society, and SAD 44!

We have completed two of the weeks of "Oh, The Places We Will Go!" and had a wonderful time at the private showing of Toy Story 3 as well as a great day at Crescent Beach.

This week we are celebrating "Alice in Wonderland" and will be attending a show at Deertrees Theater in Harrison. The kids are really excited about the Mollyocket Day parade and have been working on our float since the first day of camp! MKA has openings for more kids so don't hesitate to call us for more information and to sign up for a summer of fun. See you Saturday at the Parade!

- Julie Hart,
MKA Director

Ainsley Brown and Meagan Jewell with voyager counselor, Amanda Coolidge on a recent field trip to Crescent Beach.

Abby Marshall is loving the seaweed at Crescent Beach.

Brynn Rosenbert, Riley Gilbert, and Isabella DeVivo marinate Friday's main course.

The explorers are patiently waiting for sunscreen at Crescent Beach.

The pioneers and counselor Eva Thorton check out the tidal pools at Crescent Beach.

The MKA/THS History Project class students are researching and documenting the residents of the AMES Cementary in Greenwood. The findings will be turned over to both the Bethel and Greenwood Historical societies.

Mckinley Braley, Megan Kelly, and Meagan Jewell play dress up at the end of the day.

Henry Schroeder and Erin go down the slide together at the Big Adventure Center.

Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge: Summer presentations

Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge, located in Errol, N.H., spans from northern New Hampshire into Maine, protecting wetlands, associated wildlife and migratory birds. In an effort to connect people of all ages with what Umbagog has to offer, we will be hosting a Summer Presentation Series throughout July and August. After teaming up with organizations in the surrounding area, we are happy to provide a number of environmental education programs.

Saturday, July 17, at 6 p.m. is a program on "The Rusty Blackbird" at the Errol Town Hall. Carol Foss of the New Hampshire Audubon Society will give a talk on Rusty Blackbirds to help visitors learn all about their habitats, breeding behavior and where they can be found in the Umbagog area and other areas in the North Woods. Foss will also give visitors insight as to why this blackbird has declined about 90 percent over the last 40 years.

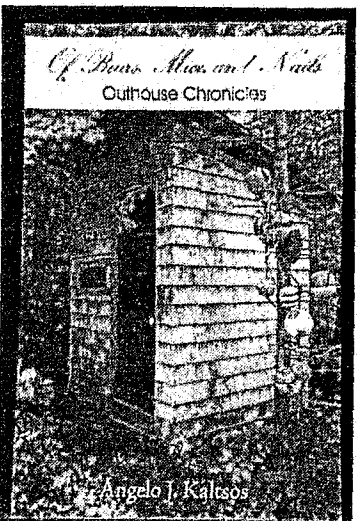

Wednesday, July 28, at 1 p.m. will be a program "Name Those Woods" at the Umbagog State Park Campground on Route 26, about nine miles southwest of Errol. Come and distinguish the trunks and leaves of the North Woods. Guests will learn about trees and shrubs that are specific to the Umbagog area. Tylar Greene, the public use intern, will lead a tree talk identifying common tree species that can be found in this region.

Friday, Aug. 6, at 6 p.m. is a program on "Bats and White-nose Syndrome" at the Errol Town Hall. When we're sound asleep, bats are wide awake feasting on mosquitoes! That's why we love them! Bats in the northeastern United States are being affected by white-nose syndrome and their numbers are declining rapidly. Along with our public use intern Tylar Greene, visitors will learn all about bats and their habits while investigating white-nose syndrome, how it affects bats and what they can do to help.

Friday, Aug. 13, at 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. is "Take Me Fishing" at the Umbagog State Park Campground. With the help and expertise from New Hampshire Fish & Game, visitors will be taught about equipment, safety, knot tying, fish identification, basic ecology and different casting techniques. Then during the afternoon, everyone will have a chance to go out on the boats and practice their new techniques on Umbagog Lake.

For more information, call (603) 482-3415, ext. 10 and look for flyers in the area.

The Family Of Charles (Chuck) Melville
(Richard, Gary, Carroll, Owen and Carolyn Chretien)
Wish to express deep gratitude to all of their many dear friends and relatives for their beautiful and heartfelt messages of condolence during this difficult time. The messages and acts of kindness have just reaffirmed what a kind, caring and generous person Chuck was. Special thanks to all of his caretakers at the Maine Veterans' Homes in South Paris, for their unconditional love, professional care and patient understanding. They became part of his family and took such good care of him during his time of need. Also we greatly appreciate all of the thoughtfulness and many details that were so expertly taken care of by Andrews Funeral Home. All of these things warm the heart and feed the soul and offer strength in times like these. "Thanks" seems hardly enough.
May God richly bless you all,
Ben and Dick Melville
